

Casey Larson

Hometown: Barrington IL (Norge Ski Club)
Birthdate: December 16, 1998
Longest jump: 216.5m, Vikersund Norway

Casey Larson grew up just five minutes away from the Norge Ski Club in Fox River Grove IL. At age six, Casey first experienced ski jumping at the club's open house event. Casey took to the sport quickly and soon began traveling to competitions around the nation. In 2014, a top-10 finish at the US Nationals earned him a spot on the USA Nordic Ski Jumping Team.

Casey had his first taste of European competition in the summer of 2015 at a FIS cup in Einsiedeln Switzerland. He went into the 2015-16 season in good form, and set a new hill record of 105 meters on the K90 in Steamboat Springs, CO at the Early Snow competition. This performance, coupled with another strong competition at the World Junior Trials in December cemented his spot for the Youth Olympics in Lillehammer Norway and Junior World Championships in Rasnov Romania.

With confidence from his recent results, Casey knows he can take his jumping to an even higher level. He is more motivated to work hard now than ever before. After finishing his junior year of school, Casey went straight into a three-week training camp in Slovenia.

Casey wants to take this sport as far as he can. "Right now I enjoy everything about it. The exposure to new cultures, traveling all over the world, and training on world class hills makes ski jumping even more fun. What I am doing right now is what I dreamed about as a seven-year-old," he said. The Olympics in 2018 and 2022 are definitely on his radar. For this year, he wants to continue to gain exposure at the international level and enjoy competing in the "coolest sport in the world."

Through December of 2016, Casey will be working hard to graduate early from Barrington HS in Illinois. He continues to train with the National Team during breaks from school. When he's home, he works with Scott Smith, a nationally recognized coach. He lives with his parents and his sister, Cara (also a talented young ski jumper and member of the Women's National Team). Casey played lacrosse through high school, finishing last year to focus on jumping.
