

TOM SODERGREN

Tom Sodergren is the working backbone of the Ishpeming Ski Club. He has the heart and soul of a true Nordic competitor, coach and volunteer. He has the inspiration and work ethic of 100 men.

Tom is a very quiet and unselfish individual who has a passion for Nordic skiing and his love for the sport of ski jumping.

He works tirelessly to prepare ski jumping hills for others to enjoy the competitions. He chose a career in septic work to be his own boss and in which he has the winters free to allow him to prepare ski jumping hills. He utilizes his own equipment to groom the hills while also assisting younger kids to enjoy this sport.

Each and every Ishpeming Ski Club (ISC) member knows the time and energy that Tom has invested to keep ski jumping alive. He has the ability to make any young jumper feel welcome.

His efforts at the "Suicide Bowl" have assisted in keeping ski jumping alive so that the ISC doesn't fade into obliquity.
